A somewhat old-fashioned term for a desirable woman recognized by her preference for, and skillful handling of, men's company. Originating in the days when men and women weren't really supposed to socialize, this refers to the kind of woman that macho guys actually like bringing along on their adventures. According to that editorial—which is a thoroughly fascinating and remarkably relevant read—the “man’s woman” is a naturally charming woman who is “interested intelligently and sincerely in the things dear to the heart of man,” though she mustn’t be too knowledgeable about those things, lest she outshine him. A man's woman is simply a woman who prefers and gains great self-esteem in the company of men. She usually has more male than female friends, gravitates towards men in a social situations, and whose company, opinions, and world views she respects the most. MAN / WOMAN have developed and built a trusted platform between brands, buyers and retailers, solidifying bridges between the three different markets. The strength is in their tasteful curation of brands, creating a strong image the team is proud of.
