And tones that are tender and tones that are gruff Are whispering over the sea, Come back, Paddy Reilly to Ballyjamesduff Come home, Paddy Reilly, to me. My mother once told me that when I was born The day that I first saw the light, I looked down the street on that very first morn And gave a great crow of delight.

Come Back Paddy Reilly To Ballyjamesduff is an Irish Folk Song written in by Percy French, a noted poet and songwriter. This version of the song is performed by Paddy Reilly from The Dubliners with a name like that, he would have to be the best man for the job!

Come Back Paddy Reilly Videos Lyrics and chords Percy French songwriter. The Paddy Reilly mentioned in the song was a jarvey or coach driver who often drove French to appointments in the Ballyjamesduff area. "Come back Paddy Reilly to Ballyjamesduff Come home Paddy Reilly to me" My mother once told me that when I was born The day that I first saw the light I looked down the street on that very frist morn And gave a great crow of delight Now most newborn babies appear in a huff.
